

ADRIAN HALL

Adrian retired from the London School of Economics in July 2012, aged 63, after a 38-year career as a manager for that university, the last 9 years as Secretary and Director of Administration, heading 900 staff and responsible for service delivery, legal issues and good governance.

With Sarah, Adrian moved to Battle in 2009 - they live at the former workhouse complex in North Trade Road. Adrian read English at Royal Holloway College, University of London and now realises he should have read history! With Sarah, Adrian has volunteered to help at Batemans and the Almonry Museum but has no other commitments.
